The South Will Not Get Her Share of their achievements.

Times-Democrat.

It is not likely that the Southern States will get a na val hero out of the present war. The Washington Star explains the status of the South in the army and navy and shows why we can hard ly expect to get our share of glory out of the present war. It says:

"The Southern States will be in exceedingly good luck if they succeed in getting a Dixon's line. These are the of American men-of-wal. ficers who are now in importmanders.
